Friday, February 8. 1723.

London, February 8.

Yesterday arrived a Mail from France.

Lisbon, January 7.

ON the 31st past the Te Deum was sung in the Metropolitan Church of this City, in Thanksgiving to God for the Blessings He vouchsafed to this Kingdom during the last Year. On the 1st Instant the foreign Ministers, and Nobility went to Court, to wish their Majesties a happy New-Year. The last Ship belonging to the Brazil Fleet which has been sometime expected, arrived here a few Days ago, but the Weather proving bad the Cargo of this Fleet is not yet all unladed.

Modena, Jan. 17. Since Count Salvatico's Removal from Court the Duke shews greater Regard to the Hereditary Prince and the Princess his Spouse, and the Prince assists regularly in Council. Nevertheless, the Count, who continues at Venice, makes great Interest to be re-admitted into Favour, and to that Purpose employs the Duke's Confessor. Some Days past this Court received an Express from Paris with Letters from the Duke of Orleans, which were communicated to the Hereditary Prince. 'Tis rumour'd that the Duke's second Son is to be invested with some Sovereignty in Italy by Means of the Emperour, who has a particular Regard for him, and also by the Recommendation of the Courts of France and Spain.

Brussels, Feb. 10. Advices from Ostend confirm the Arrival of the Emperour's Grant for establishing an East India Company there, but the Particulars of it are not yet published. M. Hop, the States General's Ambassador, is expected to pass this Way in a Day for Paris; his Baggage went through this City Yesterday.

Paris, Feb. 10. On the 5th Instant, a solemn Service for the Repose of the Soul of the late Dutchess of Orleans, was performed in the Church belonging to the Abbey-Royal of St. Denis, pompously adorned with Funeral Decorations, and illuminated by a great Number of Wax-Tapers. The Archbishop of Alby officiated at Mass, sung to Musick by the King's Choiristers. The Mourning Princesses were, Mademoiselle de Charolois, Mademoiselle de Clermont, and Mademoiselle de la Roche-sur-Yon: These Princesses, who were dressed in black long Mantles, advanced up to the Offertory with the usual Reverences and Ceremonies; Mademoiselle de Charolois was led by the Duke de Chartres, Mademoiselle de Clermont by the Duke de Bourbon, and Mademoiselle de la Roche-sur-Yon by the Count de Clermont. After the Offertory, the Bishop of Clermont made an eloquent Funeral Oration. Mass being ended, the King's Musick sang De Profundis, while the choir was performing by the Archbishop d'Alby, the Bishops of Montauban, de Sees, de Senlis, and d'Avanches. The Parliament, the Chamber of Accounts, the Court of Aydes, the Court of the Mint, the University, the Chatelet, and the City Communities, were present at this Ceremony, pursuant to the King's Invitation in the usual Manner. The 25th of August next, being the Feast of St. Lewis, the French Academy will distribute the Prize of Eloquence, founded by the late M. de Balfac, of the same Academy. The Subject will be, That Nothing can more shew the Justice and Wisdom of a Man, than the Confession he makes of his Faults. According to those Words in the 18th Chapter of the Proverbs, and 17th Verse, Justus, prior est Accusator sui.

Versailles, Feb. 12. On Sunday the 7th Instant, the King heard Mass sung to Musick in the Chapel at the Castle, during which, the Bishop of Verdun took the Oaths to his Majesty, in Presence of the Duke of Orleans. At the Conclusion of Mass, the King going from his Closet in the Chapel was taken sick, occasioned, as 'twas believed, by Repletion. On Monday in the Afternoon his Majesty was feverish, attended with a shivering, and the Fever continuing till Tuesday Morning he was let Blood, after which it sensibly diminished; at Night, when 'twas feared his Fever might return, his Majesty had the Benefit of a natural Evacuation, by which Means he got rid of the Cause of his Indisposition. On Wednesday, the King was purged with such Success, that his Pulse recovered its wonted Strength, and since that Day his Majesty's Health is perfectly confirmed. The 10th Instant, being Ash-Wednesday, the King heard Mass in his Chamber, and received the Holy Ashes from the Hands of the Abbé Caulet one of his Majesty's Almoners.

Paris, Feb. 13. Advices from the Frontiers of the 31st past give an Account, that they had begun at Bayonne to treat Mademoiselle de Beaujollois by the Stile of Madame, and of Infanta; and that being arrived the 24th at the Isle of Pheasants, the Duke of Ossuna immediately waited upon her, to pay her Compliments of Congratulation on her near Approach to Spain; two Hours after Dinner, the Duke waited upon her again, to receive her with the customary Ceremonies on such Occasions; before the Princess's Departure from the Island of Pheasants, she made her Compliments to all the Officers of the King's Household, thanking them for their good Services and Care of her, and admitted them to kiss her Hands. Being arrived at the Frontiers of Spain, the King's Household Officers returned back to St. John de Luz, distant about two Leagues from the Isle of Pheasants, and received there the Presents which the King of Spain had ordered to be distributed among those who had attended the Princess from France. --- The Dutchess de Duras, and her Daughter the Dutchess de Fitz-James, were presented each of them with the King of Spain's Picture set with Diamonds; the Duke de Duras was presented with a fine Sword set with Diamonds, the whole reckoned worth 60,000 Livres. The Brigadier of the Guards du Corps, the Gentleman of the Horse, and and the 15 Pages, had each of them a Present of a Gold hil'd Sword. The Master of the Ceremonies, and the Major-Domo, received each of them a Diamond; M. Courtois the Chief Butler was presented with a Gold Watch; a fine Diamond was given to Madame de St. Germain; a Gold Watch to each of the six Bed Chamber Women, and the rest of the Household-Officers were gratified with Money. . . . Several Discharges of the Artillery were made the 12th Instant in the Morning at the Bastile and Town-House, to notify in a joyful Manner to the People the entire Abatement of the Plague throughout this Kingdom; and in the Afternoon, all the Superior Courts assisted at the singing the Te Deum in the Metropolitan Church of this City by the King's Order, to return Thanks to God for withdrawing that terrible Calamity. . . . The King's late Indisposition had occasioned a great fall of the Stocks, but on the 10th in the Afternoon a Commissary being sent expressly from the Lieutenant-General de Police to all the Offices to give publick Notice of his Majesty's Recovery, the Actions immediately rose from 1300 Livres to 1400; but the Liquidations continued at 19 Livres 10 Sols. This Morning the Actions got up to 1480 Livres and the Liquidations to 21.
